President's Message

Welcome to the IBL's 98th season and more importantly, the Majors' 93rd season in the league.

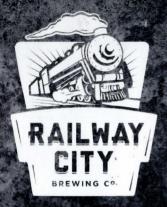

This past season was a great move forward for the Majors off field operations as we had our largest single season attendance since I have been a part of the Majors. This has been due to, in part, the great work of our players being ambassadors in the community. The way in which our players connect with our community - from the youngest fan to the oldest (wisest) fans is incredible to watch. Baseball is the common language that our players use as the tool to deliver the positive messages that sports can bring in what some may say are chaotic times. When I look around the ballpark and see all of the families that are watching the game on the field, and unknowingly they are also building memories and bonds within their family, it is one of those heartfelt moments.

We also have some of the best volunteers and game day staff that do their best to make the games run as smoothly as possible. They may not get the same spotlight that our players on the field get, but they are just as integral in making the fan experience for the few hours that you our fans spend with us. So when you see one of our many helpers, please take a moment to thank them for all of their efforts.

Lastly, our supporters of the team are our lifeline. It is imperative for any sports organization to have corporate partners and I have to say that we have some of the most amazing people that we get to work with. A lot of our corporate partners not only support the Majors, but they also step up to the plate when we are trying to bring awareness to a cause or a social services agency or a not for profit or to help raise much needed financial support to strengthen the fabric of our community.

I am looking forward to the season ahead as we strive to win a championship. Also I am looking forward to continue working with our community to create a family-friendly, inexpensive, action packed night at the World's Oldest Continually Used Baseball Field with the world's best fans!

Manager's Message

This is the start of my 12th season as the Manager of the London Majors. I am always excited and honored to put on the uniform and manage this team. I love coaching these young men and watch them develop not only as players on the field but mature and be good citizens off the field.

The 2016 season was a special season in that we captured our 2nd IBL Pennant (regular season champions) with me as the Manager. Our first pennant was captured in the 2008 season where we had a record of 27-8 to finish 1st overall. Last year we had to play a tie breaker to win the pennant with an impressive 28-9 record. We lost in the semi-finals of the playoffs coming up short on our winning a championship.

We continue to give the local players an opportunity to play for their hometown team. We continue to be one of the few team to use mostly local players (2016 we had 15 of the 22 players, were guys that live in the London area). Our import players are also important as these are typically ex-pro players that lead the way and show the guys what it takes to get to the next level.

Our fans have been great and it's good to see the continued growth from year to year in our fan base. It's always special for the boys to play in front of a large supportive crowd (2 games with excess of 5,000 fans - Pack the Park and July 1st) and we greatly appreciate your support.

We continue to preach three main things to all of our players; HARDWORK, DEDICATION & RESPECT.

Go Majors Go!

The London Majors Step Up to the Plate as 2016 IBL Pennant Winners

After a full summer of triumph against their competitors, the London Majors won the Intercounty Baseball League's Pennant at the end of the franchise's 91st season in 2016. One year later, memories of the epic deciding game are still fresh in fan's minds. Despite a 36-game schedule, the Majors hit the field for a 37th game to break their tie with the Kitchener Panthers. The Panthers were formidable opponents with a highly skilled roster that included three members from the Cuban national team, but the Majors prevailed to shutout the Panthers 4-0. IBL ERA leader Cory Hammond was exceptional, pitching a 2-hit 9 inning complete game gem. During the regular season the Majors played an exciting brand of baseball, with a league high 100 stolen bases. Winning the Pennant was a true team effort, with great individual performances led by team MVPs Byron Reichstein and Cleveland Brownlee and team pitchers of the year, Elis Jimenez and Cory Hammond.

In the end, it was the Majors' strong, "family-bond" that led to victory, with each player applying their own brand of grit and passion to carry the team through the regular season grind. With the ultimate goal of winning a league championship, the London Majors have returned for their 92nd season to put fans on the edge of their seats while playing their hardest yet.

In the Community

With a strong drive to positively impact their home base, the London Majors are proud supporters of London's community-driven initiatives. Partnerships with local businesses provide a fun, family-friendly opportunity to connect with both customers and employees, along with maximized exposure to over 30,000 estimated attendees. We have also teamed up with our generous sponsors to give back as advocates for numerous non-profit organizations. We hold annual events, such as Purple in the Park for the London Abused Women's Centre, which are especially geared to benefit these causes. Additionally, we are pleased to encourage healthy lifestyles in youth through our week-long Kids Baseball Camp. Beyond playing baseball, a new season for the London Majors means a new chance to make their community a better place.

Labatt Memorial Park Original name - Tecumseh Park

Created by W.J. Reid, a local London businessman, Tecumseh Park was laid out on the current site in early 1877. The first game at the park was held on May 3, 1877, with a contest between the London Tecumsehs and its junior team, the London Atlantics. The Tecumsehs won 5-1. The park was later purchased by the Labatt Family in 1936 & donated to the City of London after $10,000 of improvements occurred. 130 years later it is still being used for its original purpose.

Barry Boughner - IBL Champion

By: Angela McInnes

Barry "Bougle" Boughner will never forget seeing Labatt Park for the first time. He was 16 years old and had come to try out for the London Chester Peggs Diamond Junior baseball team. "The home plate was another 60-80 feet further towards the back of the stands, and I was hitting them out there," he says. "I remember every guy I played junior baseball with. That's what happens when you play here - you make the greatest memories of your life."

Born in Delhi Ontario on January 29, 1948, he moved to London in October, 1964 to play for London Nationals Jr. B Hockey Club. He played for the Jr. A team from 1965-1968 then turned professional for the next six years. A gifted athlete, Boughner went on to play for various hockey teams in the CHL, AHL and NHL during the winter - but he always headed back home to London for baseball in the summers.

Boughner was a junior in the London Chester Pegg Diamonds from 1965-1969, winning two intercounty championships and the All-Ontario Junior Championship in 1968. He also played as a junior for the London Pontiacs (forerunners to the London Majors) in 1966-1969.

His first official year with London's intercounty baseball team was in 1970 (then the London Avcos). He was with the team from that year to 1975, when it had been named the London Majors once more and he earned a second IBL championship. As a talented utility player, Boughner's career highlights also include being named the first all-star third baseman, first all-star second baseman, first all-star designated hitter, and second time all-star at second base.

Following baseball, Boughner had a successful career as a salesman and now works as a passionate fundraiser for Veterans programs at Parkwood Hospital. He is currently chair of the London Majors Alumni Committee and organizing a reunion event slated for Saturday, July 22 at Labatt Park prior to the Majors game with the Brantford Red Sox at 7:35 PM. A considerable number of players from the 1969 and 1975 Championships will be in attendance.

Of his time with the London Majors, Boughner says proudly, "the 1975 London Majors was by far the best team I ever played on. We were damn good."

Stan Jones and Tommy White -Legends of the London Army Team

By: Angela McInnes

In 1943 the London Army team laid down the groundwork as forerunners to the team that would be renamed the London Majors in 1944. The team was made up of 17 remarkably talented men, but it was two players in particular that set them apart from the competition and help pave the way to victory.

Working in a unit known in baseball terms as a "battery", the team relied heavily on their co-operation. A strong bond of trust between the two was of the utmost importance – "crossing up" each other's signals could have been disastrous to the game. Luckily, Jones and White worked extraordinarily well together and the 1943 London Army team earned the titles of Senior Intercounty Baseball League Champions, Ontario Baseball Association Senior A Champions and Canadian Baseball Congress Champions.

Tommy White was also star pitcher of the 1948 London Majors, winners of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League Championship, the Ontario Championship, the Canadian Baseball Congress Championship and the Can-Am Championship. This team is now widely considered to be one of the best amateur men's baseball teams of all time. Later, White supported local athletes as the owner of a sporting goods store in St. Thomas, Ontario.

In 2017, the London Majors look up to Jones' and White's legendary example of team work and comradery. Stan Jones, 94, fondly recalls playing for London. He will be attending the Majors' Alumni Reunion Event at the Roy McKay Clubhouse at Labatt Park prior to the game between the Brantford Red Sox and London Majors on Sat. July 22 at 7:35 pm.

The Strangest Home-Run Smash in Labatt Park's Long History

By: Barry Wells

Forty-one years ago when the wood-loving beaver became Canada's official mascot, the 1975 London Majors, skippered by the late Roy McKay, won the Intercounty Baseball League (IBL) pennant (20-8 record) and championship series against Guelph Royals using a dynamite combination of pitching, defence and lumber. In 2015, the '75 team was inducted into the London Sports Hall of Fame.

In fact, it was the last time The Local Nine won the IBL title, although the 2008 Majors won the league pennant (finished 1st in the regular-season standings), but lost the championship series with the Brantford Red Sox in Game 7 before 5,200 fans at LaBatt-LaBall Park™.

McKay's outstanding '75 club was deep in talent and long on camaraderie and teamwork. Two of its five allstars were league MVP Mike (Killer) Kilkenny and slugger Larry (Haggar) Haggitt.

Killer was a tall, southpaw pitcher fresh from five seasons in The Bigs (Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians, San Diego Padres and Oakland A's) who still had all his stuff on the mound. He went undefeated (9-0) during the regular season and also in the playoffs (5-0). First-baseman Larry Haggitt won the '75 IBL batting crown with a .412 season average.

According to IBL Iron Man and all-star teammate Arden (RD) Eddie, "Killer used to say before games he pitched, 'Just give me two runs and I'll take care of the rest." Setting a hit off Kilkenny was like trying to steal a pork chop from a pit-bull terrier.

Larry Haggitt, a powerful six-footer built like a brick shithouse, could really crush a baseball. "One night in "75 during the bottom of the lst," says Eddie, "Haggar's at the plate and he launched one into orbit; a moon shot over the wood fence in right-field and out of the park."

As the tumblers of time would have it, Larry's wife, Rachel, who'd gone shopping at White Oaks Mall before the game, was travelling westward over the new Queens Avenue bridge on her way back to watch the game. Just after she arrived at the bridge's western end, a meteor-like baseball smashed into her front windshield. Or as Arden Eddie describes it, 'the ball and the windshield arrived at the same Earth coordinates together and the ball and the windshield became one."

Only after Rachel returned to the park did she discover it was husband Larry who'd dispatched the ball like a cannon, out of the park onto Riverside Drive. "It was funny as hell to everyone except Rachel and Haggar," says Eddie.

What are the odds of clobbering a game ball 475 feet into the windshield of your own moving car? Given that only one man in a million can even hit a baseball 475 feet, the odds of randomly smashing the windshield of your own moving car at that distance are astronomical. It's the only home-run blast during Haggitt's career that lightened his wallet at Apple Auto Class®.

Teammate Barry J. Fuller contends Haggitt "also drilled another one that hit the old Dutch Laundry on the other side of Riverside," an estimated 560 feet from home plate, during another game. "

"Haggitt was on fire that year," says all-star infielder Barry (Boogie) Boughner. "He hit that ball out of the yard in right field onto Riverside Drive and it's still going."

For the uninitiated, baseball is a magical game of synchronicity, where playful Baseball Gods revel in creating unusual coincidences where split-second timing is everything. The field is the sacred stage, the infield a diamond. There's nine defensive players and nine innings. Runners move around the bases counter clockwise, but there's no time clock. Theoretically, a game can last forever.

When you think you've seen all the strange plays imaginable, another one unfolds before your eyes. As the late Yankee catcher Yogi Berra would say, "It's déjà vu all over again."

The Intercounty Baseball League has been a part of summer in Southern Ontario for 93 years now and for its 94th season, the League is venturing into Eastern Ontario with the admission of the Ottawa Fatcats. Ottawa replaces the Oshawa Dodgers who suspended operations following the 2009 season.

The League has had its ups and downs over the years, but it continues to provide baseball fans with exciting action every summer.

The League began in 1919 with just four teams...Galt, Guelph, Stratford and Kitchener. Despite a rocky start the Inter-County managed to survive its first season.

The rest, as they say is history.

It's a long and rich history too. In the early years the League expanded with London, Brantford, Preston and St. Thomas joining at various times.

By the mid 1930s, the Inter-County had established a reputation as one of Ontario's best amateur leagues. In fact when Stratford won the Ontario Baseball Association title in 1934, it was the League's fifth OBA title in a row.

The League survived the Second World War in good shape, even though many players joined the armed forces. After the war, the League became professional in everything but name.

The Inter-County was considered by the professional ranks as an "outlaw" league at that time. The bidding war for players was fierce, and many ex-major league players came to Ontario looking for a few last baseball bucks.

So many came, in fact, that the League was considered on a par with many minor pro leagues. Great crowds came out to see the games, which were played under floodlights for the first time in the 1950s, and the senior league appointed its first commissioner, John Gillies, a London lawyer and former pitcher in the League.
