LAGUNA HILLS, CA, AUGUST 21 2017/OneHockey/It's taken 14 years, but the hockey tournament industry's undisputed international leader is finally going to introduce its home state of California what the highly acclaimed OneHockey Experience is all about.

CEO Sebastien Fortier, a Laguna Hills resident, is excited to announce that OneHockey will bring four OneHockey holiday weekend spectaculars to the Golden State during the 2017-18 season. These three-day hockey festivals will take place at Icetown Arenas in Carlsbad and LA Kings Icetown Riverside during the Thanksgiving, Presidents Day, Memorial Day and the 4th of July weekends. Both arenas are owned and operated by the Dunaev family and the Riverside Location is a community partner with the NHL's Los Angeles Kings franchise.

"I've been waiting for an opportunity to break into California, and now we got one," says Fortier, who founded OneHockey in 2003 and operates the 25-plus year-round tournament organization from his home office.

A OneHockey event is anything but your everyday tournament at your neighborhood ice rink. From its festive music and playful mascot streaming throughout each venue to its bustling lobby featuring a multitude of hockey vendors as well as its popular red-carpet social media interviews, all cumulating with its trademark championship ceremony – complete with a OneHockey Cup raising and non-alcoholic champagne celebration – the OneHockey Experience cannot be equaled.
